2 Young Men Enter Nursing School Here

Commercial News Article by Jim Rick

Things were not quite the same at Lakeview Memorial School of Nursing Friday. Two males had the school, entirely feminine for 66 years, in a bit of minor turmoil. The two are enrolled in the freshman class which will begin training this fall. As such, they are the first male students in history of the school.

The two "probies" are Ken Blue of Danville and Dave Hadley of Toledo, Ohio. Hadley recently moved to Danville.

Occasion for the gathering of the 29 new students present was day of counseling and guidance, with school director, Mrs. Charline Grygiel in charge. Final processing prior to entrance August 31st was completed, including educational conferences, X-rays, blood work and qualifying certificates.

Miss Anita Roderick, president of the student body, welcomed the students.

Conferences were held with instructors, Miss Doris Richardson, Miss Jean Nicholson and Mrs. Leota Stockanes.

A picnic lunch was held with faculty and representatives of the freshman class. Prospective students still may apply for entrance to the school for the fall term. The next pre-nursing test for entrance will be given at the school June 27 (1959).

The entrance of the male students correlates with a national rise in men entering the nursing field. It has been generally agreed by medical authorities that vast opportunities await men in nursing.

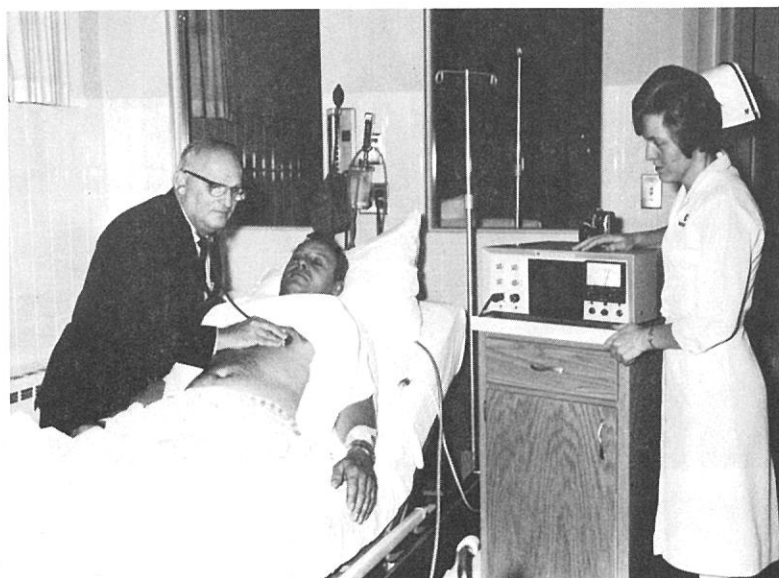

Areas where they already are found are in administration, psychiatric nursing, public health, health counseling, research and teaching as well as others.

The first male to graduate from Lakeview Memorial School of Nursing was David L. Hadley. He was married to JoAnn McGee, January 7, 1961. She was also a student nurse. Before his graduation he developed Hodgkins disease and died January 12, 1963. Dave was a very conscientious student and was respected by patients and students alike.

IN-SERVICE

In 1966 when Charline Grygiel interviewed me for the position of In-service Director, she emphasized the need for an orientation program for newly employed registered nurses including the new Lakeview School of Nursing graduates and the first licensed practical nurses to be employed at Lakeview. Those programs were first established.

Gertrude Gorman was assigned to the department and later Lorma Hensley joined us. The department name was changed to Staff Development. We planned and implemented programs that affected the student nurses while in clinical practice and the new graduates employed as staff nurse. We included many School of Nursing faculty members in planning committees. The work of the School of Nursing librarian, Donna Judd, was especially helpful to us.

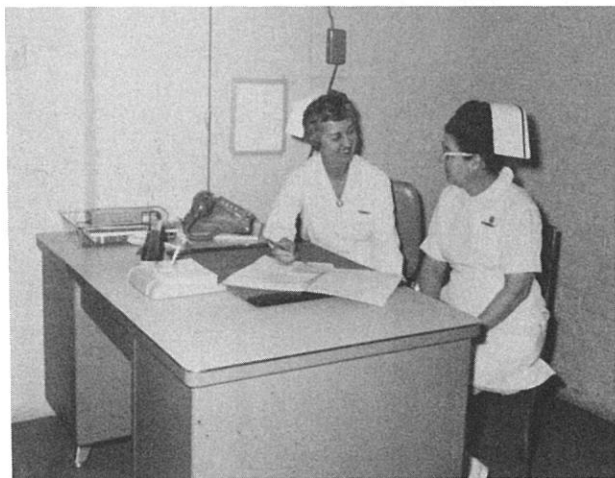

Some of the programs we put into operation were:

- On-the-job training courses for Ward Secretary, Nurse Assistant and Orderly
 - Revision of policies and procedures for all nursing departments
 - Revision of all chart forms
 - Hospital orientation for all employees
 - First Disaster Plan and Drill
 - Messenger Service for the hospital
 - Adult and children pre-operation classes
 - Diabetic and cardiac patient instruction
 - Numerous workshops on current topics related to nursing care and management principles
- Students and faculty were invited to those workshops.

The many committee meetings and association with Lakeview School of Nursing faculty and staff were highlights of our experiences.

Congratulations, Lakeview School of Nursing faculty and staff, on your 100th Anniversary !! May you continue to "Care and Share" quality nursing care the next 100 years !

Nursing School Now Accredited

Word Culminates Years of Planning

By JAMES RICK
C-N Medical Writer

Culminating years of planning, the Lake View Memorial Hospital School of Nursing has just received full national accreditation.

Word was received by the hospital's administrator, Austin Evans. The accreditation is for a full six-year period.

Evans said that accreditation by the National League for Nursing is "the most coveted honor a school of nursing can achieve."

"This is the greatest professional achievement our school has ever attained," he continued. "It is a hallmark of quality in education."

Mrs. Charline Grygiel is director of the nursing school, as well as director of nurses at Lake View.

Evans said that through the years, "We have been a fully-operative three-year school, providing good quality education under full licensing by the state of Illinois."

Exceed Standards

"But this latest achievement is a big feather in our hat. Accreditation is a voluntary process. It demonstrates to the public that the school desires to exceed the minimum standards prescribed by the various states' licensing agencies."

This is the first time a Danville nursing school has received national accreditation. Lake View's school was established in 1894.

The school received word from Frances K. Peterson of the board of review for diploma programs for the National League for Nursing based in New York City.

In February, the school was inspected four days by nursing representatives from New York and St. Louis.

Evans said the "nursing school faculty and staff have worked diligently for years to achieve this goal. Mrs. Grygiel and her staff compiled a 400-page report, plus two dozen other pamphlets and exhibits, for the final survey.

"I really believe," Evans said, "that the public could have no idea of the tremendous work that went into this attainment. Our school, a diploma institution, is the oldest school of higher education in Danville, and we believe, a very fine school."

"But for accreditation on a national basis, you have to go that extra step beyond good operational standards, and the guidelines are very demanding."

Responsible for Success

"This goal is one dreamed about for a long time by Mrs. Grygiel, and of the persons responsible for this success, the most credit, of course, goes to her."

Evans said that "criteria for accreditation are high. There must be continuous evaluation in all phases of the educational program," including:

Curriculum, student government and housing, library facilities, administrative relationships, faculty qualifications, selection of students and their performance.

Evans said an accredited school "guarantees to the community that its graduates are good and safe practitioners of nursing and able to meet the preventive, rehabilitative and restorative needs of individuals and their families."

The 20 students graduated a week ago are considered as the first class to graduate under national accreditation at Lake View.

"Look not mournfully into the past, it will not return. Wisely improve the present and go forth to meet the future without fear and with a courageous heart."

Charline Grygiel, Director of Nursing

They're Almost Gone

Alas, Glass Thermometers Going, Going . . .

By JAMES RICK
C-N Medical Writer

You can tolerate almost anything when you're flat on your back in a hospital.

But when they take away your glass thermometer and replace it with an electronic one, well, that's enough to raise most anyone's temperature.

During past years, it was pretty simple. A nurse would pop into the room, smile, say "Good morning," but then she would break out her secret weapon, that glass thermometer.

"On guard!"

Then she'd lecture about taking the pills, about all those visitors streaming endlessly into your room day and night, about taking care of your stitches.

Well, that was okay. Likely, you deserved the lecture, particularly about the stitches. However, all the while she was talking, she was also shaking that thermometer in her hand.

Darndest thing you ever saw. You just lay there listening, watching, and counting how many times she would flick her wrist.

Then it happened, just as you knew it would: "Open up, please, you have to hold this in your mouth for a few minutes."

The old silencer treatment . . . and there you lay, with temptation to bite into that glass instrument.

Obviously, you temper that thought . . . and just wait, perhaps one to three minutes (about the minimum for taking one's temperature accurately with a glass thermometer). But you know, it seemed even longer.

Then the nurse zips back into the room and with a cheery, "Let's check it," and with one fell swoop of a wrist movement, she takes the thermometer out of your mouth.

It reminds you of getting an X-ray where they tell you, "Now you can breathe." But much to your chagrin, the nurse pops it back into your mouth, "We better try it again."

If it weren't for her warm, Florence Nightingale manner, you'd be tempted to ask why you have been chosen to set the world's indoor record for holding a thermometer in your mouth the longest.

That thought, of course, only raises your temperature more and further distorts the mercury column.

But the three minutes - or so - pass once again, with the world's record little noted. And so it goes.

The days of glass thermometers may be gone forever at Lakeview Memorial. Now, electronic thermometers are in use on all nursing floors, in the intensive care and emergency room units.

Nurses say it only takes about 10 to 15 seconds to take one's temperature now. The new system allows greater accuracy and eliminates any chance of cross contamination.

One difficulty under the old system, the temperature of a patient reportedly could vary from use of one glass thermometer to another.

With the new instruments, a plastic covered probe is inserted into the patient's mouth and in a few seconds a reading is registered electronically on a small box-like unit.

A new plastic cover is used for each patient, each time the temperature is taken. Afterwards, the probe cover is discarded.

As to your condition, soon you feel better, and though your temperature is settling comfortably down, your nostalgia reading is steadily going up.

For when you think about it, there was something fascinating about the old system.

You never knew when the nurse was going to stop shaking her wrist and pop that thermometer into your mouth.

And too, you had the feeling that the thermometer was a champion of your cause. After all, anyone who could hold a glass thermometer in his mouth long enough to set a world's record couldn't be very sick.

Ex-City woman's picture graces U.S. stamp

by Andi Davis
C-N Staff Writer

The former Danville resident is pictured on an 18-cent stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the American Red Cross, which observed its "birthday" today.

Mrs. Hamilton, 56, a 1945 graduate of the Lakeview School of Nursing, is a nurse in a New Jersey pediatrics clinic. An artist asked her last summer to pose with an infant, but she didn't know what it would be used for.

The stamp was unveiled February 8, 1981 and first released May 1 in the national Red Cross office in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Hamilton's sister, Marian Lockhart of 611 N. Griffin, learned about Mrs. Hamilton's fame this week when she received a letter from another sister. Frieda Petersen of Florida, a 1940 Lakeview graduate, wrote Mrs. Lockhart about the honor, used a stamp and enclosed two.

Mrs. Lockhart noticed the stamp on the envelope from Mrs. Petersen. "I thought what a nice stamp." But, it wasn't until she read the letter that she knew the woman on the stamp was her sister, Marie.

Mrs. Hamilton said she was chosen as a model by the artist, Joseph Csatari of South River, N.J. Csatari, a former student of Norman Rockwell, frequently does portrait work for the government.

Mrs. Hamilton said mothers sometimes have trouble when they try to balance their babies in one arm and write their check-books with another. In such cases, nurses often hold the babies for them. Mrs. Hamilton was holding a particularly cute baby one day when Csatari brought his children to the clinic.

Nurse Marie Hamilton and David Nicholls-Paul get reacquainted at a North Brunswick pediatric center

The artist asked Mrs. Hamilton if she would consider posing for him.

"I thought, 'you've got to be kidding,' Mrs. Hamilton said. "I thought you had to have someone beautiful to pose."

Csatari "discovered" a five-month old baby in a local mall, brought the two of them together and painted the picture last year.

But because Csatari worked for the government, he couldn't tell Mrs. Hamilton or the young parents of the baby what the picture was for.

Some years ago, Mrs. Hamilton was a Red Cross nurse in Columbus, Ohio. Her sister, Mrs. Lockhart, was a Red Cross volunteer at the Danville Veterans Administration Medical Center in the 60s.

Since she graduated from Lakeview, Mrs. Hamilton worked as a nurse in Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis where she was assistant supervisor and then supervisor of the obstetrics ward. The Hamiltons settled 3½ years ago in North Brunswick, N.J., where she began work at the clinic.

Dixon said no stamps ever commemorate a living person. Mrs. Hamilton is merely a symbol of the Red Cross and her name does not appear on the stamp. "Technically, she's not supposed to be identified but somebody had to pose."

Lakeview School of Nursing graduates put stress on caring

First class to receive bachelor degrees

Special to the Commercial-News

"With Caring, We Begin" was the motto selected by the five graduates of Lakeview College of Nursing.

It was Lakeview's first class of graduates to earn bachelor degrees. The five received their bachelor of science degrees in nursing Sunday at the Masonic Temple. The five are:

■ Nancy Addis, a staff nurse at the VA Medical Center in Danville.

She lives in Danville.

■ Ranae Ault, who works at Carle Hospital, Urbana.

She lives near St. Joseph.

■ Lisa Edenburn, works part time at United Samaritans Medical Center, Logan Campus as a nursing technician and in the pediatric ward.

graduation speaker. JoAnne Schulenberg, chairman of the college's board of directors, presented the diplomas.

Lakeview School of Nursing is one of the oldest nursing schools in Illinois, founded in 1894.

It became known as Lakeview School of Nursing three years later.

The curriculum has an indepth theory and clinical focus, with a base in social sciences, humanities and natural sciences.

The Logan Avenue campus is a single-purpose school, offering a four-year curriculum leading to a bachelor's degree in nursing.

Classes are scheduled on daytime and night schedules. Financial assistance is available.

Treating the whole person in a caring manner is the essence of nursing taught at Lakeview, according to Betty Bryant, director of student services and assistant director.

"It is life and death, you deal with all of it," she said.

"The satisfaction comes from being able to say that you did all that was humanly possible for both the patient and the family."

According to recent studies, more than 600,000 more nurses will be needed in the U.S. by the year 2000.

Continued growth in the elderly population and demands for quality health care have contributed to the demand for nurses, according to a Lakeview press release.

The Webster Home

The Webster Memorial Home was established in 1920 with a grant of one hundred thousand dollars by A.L. Webster and a donation of forty thousand dollars by local business owners. The Webster Home was located on the northeast corner of Fairchild Street and Logan Avenue. Mr. Webster who was an eighth generation direct descendent of Daniel Webster established the home to provide living quarters for elderly women. The stately brick structure had 14 separate bedrooms plus bathroom, a kitchen, a dining room and living room.

On August 22, 1988, Thomas W. Chapman, President of the Board of Trustees of Webster Memorial Home, announced that the structure was being donated to Lakeview Memorial Foundation. Chairman of the Lakeview Memorial Foundation Board, William Kesler, stated that the Webster Memorial Home was accepted for the use of Lakeview College of Nursing.

In 1993, an imposing brick addition to the original building was completed. Funds for the construction of the new addition came from Lakeview Memorial Foundation. The entire building is now the new home of Lakeview College of Nursing.

Love of people reason for giving

By ELAINE SYMANSKI
THE COMMERCIAL-NEWS

Margaret Haenel has no complicated philosophy to explain why she has devoted most of her life to volunteer work in Danville.

"I just like people," is the way she puts it.

Although she now considers Danville "home", as a newcomer to the city some 30 years ago, Mrs. Haenel wasted no time getting involved.

"At first I joined organizations so I could meet people but I soon found myself knee-deep in things," she commented.

One of her most rewarding jobs has been working with the Children's Home of Vermilion County. During her 15 years with the organization Mrs. Haenel has served in nearly every capacity including a three-year term as president, first and second vice president, chairman of the woman's division for the building fund drive and chairman of children's services. She currently serves on the board in the property and personnel and CRISIS Youth Shelter committees.

"Since children are our future leaders, I've always felt that my time was well spent in working for children with problems - trying to help them straighten out their lives," she said.

MARGARET HAENEL

Dear Friends and Supporters of Lakeview Memorial Foundation:

This open letter is being written to you because of the interest you have shown in the health care and health education activities of Lakeview Memorial Foundation in the past and to inform you of what has recently transpired.

For several years now we have provided a wide range of services to fulfill our purposes, all to the benefit of Danville and area residents.

However, in the past few years we have focused our attention and given our aid to an increasing degree on the Lakeview College of Nursing, based on their need for support and their extensive contributions to our community. You have also sensed this present and continuing need and have responded by directing that the majority of your individual donations to Lakeview Memorial Foundation be used for the benefit of Lakeview College of Nursing.

Of course, we have continued our many other philanthropies but now there are three other local foundations which are health care oriented and we have found with increasing frequency that we overlap each other's efforts in some, more general, health care activities.

We cannot overlook the importance of these two significant developments which we have just mentioned and we believe strongly that we must adapt our function to present needs and conditions. At the same time we remain determined to honor what we feel to be the ultimate intentions of our many hundreds of generous donors.

Accordingly, we have taken a clear cut and direct action in the new future we will:

1. Build a new College of Nursing on the Webster home property at the corner of Fairchild and Logan. That property was given to us by the Webster Home board in 1988 for the use of the Lakeview College of Nursing;
2. Transfer all of our student loan and grant funds to Lakeview College of Nursing for their administration;
3. Transfer all our remaining funds to the Lakeview College of Nursing after the first two actions are complete;
4. Dissolve Lakeview Memorial Foundation.

Yes, this is a drastic move but we have considered its every aspect and are now confident that it is the right course to follow. We have done all that we can to assure that Lakeview College of Nursing will thrive and that Danville will continue to be blessed by the existence of this prestigious and valued local college.

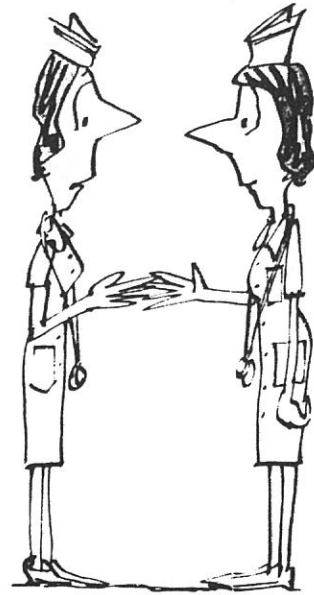

Other local foundations will consider requests which might formerly have been directed to Lakeview Memorial Foundation. You will still be able to contribute directly to the Lakeview College of Nursing. We know that they will appreciate, as we have, evidence of your desire to serve humanity by giving to a lifesaving and life serving cause.

We offer our heartfelt thanks to you all for your past support.

A century of higher learning

By Kevin Cullen

Commercial-News Staff Writer

DANVILLE — Say "the college" in the Vermilion County region, and most people think of Danville Area Community College, a two-year school.

But there's another college. It was founded 52 years earlier, and unlike DACC, offers a four-year bachelor's degree.

It's the Lakeview College of Nursing, the only baccalaureate nursing program offered within a 50-mile radius.

Founded in 1894, the college will kick off its 100th year on Dec. 5 with dedication of a new $1-million building at 903 N. Logan Ave.

The former Webster Memorial Home building forms the west half of the complex. All classrooms, laboratories and offices will be under one roof.

Rented quarters will be abandoned in a former tuberculosis sanitarium behind United Samaritans Medical Center, Logan campus.

The move will provide more efficiency, more visibility, and a better starting block for the second century, said Dr. James DeBoer, president of the college's board of trustees.

"We're training not just nurses for the work force but leaders in the nursing profession," he said.

The new, two-story brick addition will provide 10,000 square feet of space. It will feature a computer lab, nursing-skills room, chemistry lab, library, conference room and classrooms.

"As a private school, we often have the advantage of a better teacher-student ratio, with more control over admissions and more of a focus on the students," DeBoer said.

The need for nurses continues to grow, he said, because of larger numbers of elderly, and the push to provide care for the uninsured and underinsured.

The number of health-care jobs in Vermilion County is expected to surpass the number of industrial jobs by the year 2000.

"Obviously, the Lakeview College of Nursing is a very necessary part of any scheme to meet those growing needs," DeBoer said. "Approximately 50 percent of our students stay in the county on graduation."

The nurse's school pumps nearly $1 million into the local economy yearly, according to an Eastern Illinois University study.

A college with history

The college has a proud history. Its 1,500 graduates have served in both world wars, on nearly every continent. Current enrollment is 200.

A reminiscence, found in the college files, shows the primitive state of health care in Danville in 1892. Lakeview Hospital, then called Vermilion County Protestant Hospital, was quartered in a rented house at 303 E. Fairchild St.

According to the unsigned written document:

"Operations were performed on an ordinary table in the front room of the ground floor. After an operation the attending surgeon and an assistant lifted the patient under his shoulders and hips and carried him up the winding stairway to one of the 12 beds upstairs."

No nurses attended surgeries.

"Doctors looked after themselves, selecting instruments from their grips as needed. No gloves were worn, but bichloride of mercury solution was near in which to rinse hands frequently."

Two years later, the "Danville Training School for Nurses" was founded. Through the years, it has offered two-year, three-year, and now four-year nursing programs.

The first class, only four women, graduated in 1896. At that time, classes were held in a two-story brick building on East Fairchild Street.

Lakeview Hospital — now USMC, Logan campus — doubled its bed capacity in 1917, and student nurses were housed in cottages provided by the Women's Aid Society.

THE NURSE'S CAP IS MORE THAN AN ORNAMENT

The origin of the nurse's cap is an unsolved mystery. Some say it stems from the days of Florence Nightingale when ladies wore a cap indoors, keeping their hair clean and pulled back while they worked. Others trace it back to one of the first nursing schools, Flidner's School of Protestant Deaconesses, established in Kaiserwerth, Germany in 1836.

Throughout the history of Lakeview, the school cap was a unique mark of distinction. To the alumni of Lakeview the cap has a special significance because it was a symbol of the proud profession of nursing. Additionally, it may represent purity of life, uprightness of character, loyalty and faithfulness to the ideals of nursing.

Did you know women wore indoor caps until late into the 19th century ?

Ceremonial capping exercises probably go back to the Augustinian Era, one of the oldest orders devoted to nursing.

Uniforms of the past

The Lakeview student uniform has changed many times over the years. The original floor length uniform was probably very difficult to work in and required hours of drudgery to wash and iron. The uniform of the 30's through the early 50's was blue chambray with stiffly starched detachable white collar and cuffs, and a white wrap-around apron. After the probationary period and the capping ceremony, a white starched bib and cap were added. Junior students had a badge on their sleeve to denote their status. The crowning touch was added in the Senior year when the black band was added to the cap. In the mid-fifties the uniform was modified somewhat. The apron was one piece and covered only the front of the uniform. In the early 60's when male students were admitted into the program their uniform consisted of white pants and tunic top. The top was trimmed with blue on sleeves and neck. In 1968 there was a drastic change in the student uniform. The uniform dress was gold in color with a pleated white bib front. Later the uniform was changed back to the traditional blue and white dress. In 1988 with the advent of the baccalaureate program, the uniform was changed again to a burgundy colored tunic top worn over a white dress uniform. The men in the program wore white pants with a burgundy colored top.

And On Into the 90's....

Responding to changes in health care and in the profession, representatives of the Lakeview faculty and the community implemented a feasibility study in 1984. This culminated in the recommendation that Lakeview consider changing to a degree granting institution at the baccalaureate level: Lakeview College of Nursing. The College was granted approval to establish a baccalaureate nursing program by the State of Illinois, Department of Registration and Education in September 1987. In March of 1989 the College of Nursing had it's first North Central site visit. North Central is the accrediting agency for institutions of higher education. The site team recommended candidacy status for the college.

On June 3, 1989, Lakeview School of Nursing graduated the last diploma class. This was sign of the times as hospital -based nursing programs continue to be phased out and/or replaced by Associate Degree and Baccalaureate nursing programs.

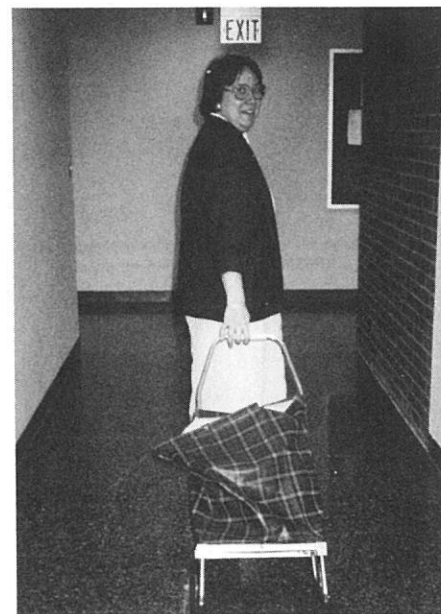

In May of 1990, the first class of five baccalaureate students graduated from Lakeview College of Nursing. Since that time, three more classes have graduated a total of fifty-seven students. On May 15, 1994 thirty-two more students will complete the course of study. These students are graduating in the 100th year of the program.

Nursing education through the 80's and 90's has changed but it has not become less difficult. The majority of today's students are non-traditional in the sense that they are usually older, many are married and have children. Some are divorced and/or single parents. More males are entering nursing programs today, some seeking new job skills or second careers. They are highly motivated and goal oriented. Today's students often juggle home-making skills with parenting, classwork and a full-time job, an almost insurmountable task. Together or individually, today's students share the same fears, anxieties and apprehension that all nursing students experience.

For one hundred years, Lakeview has graduated nurses prepared to meet the needs of individuals and health care institutions in Danville and throughout the entire country. In this period of time, almost seventeen hundred students have completed their basic nursing education at Lakeview. All of these graduates, each in their own unique way have contributed to the proud history of Lakeview and One Hundred Years of Caring !
